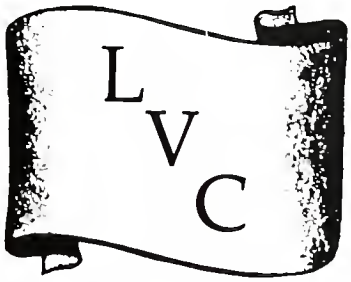
STUDENT LIFE



HOMECOMING

During halftime of LVC's 1988 Homecoming game Doreen Simmons, Theresa Leach, Bryna Vandergrift, Deb Spancake, Missy Andrews, and Beth Trout were presented as LVC's 1988 Homecoming Queen candidates. Bryna won the title and was crowned as Queen. "It was a great day in my life", she said, "I felt honored to be chosen to represent a school like ours. People have a tendency to underrate LVC because it's a small school and is located in Annville, but I feel that LVC offers a very down-to-earth atmosphere and close-knit family."

LVC also celebrated its Homecoming Weekend with the traditional bonfire, carnival, parade and entertainment, as well as a victory on the football field. The win over Albright, the first Homecoming victory for the Valley since 1981, resurrected a college tradition in which classes are cancelled the Monday after a Homecoming victory. After Saturday's game, a crowd of students, mostly freshmen, trudged up the hill to Kreiderheim to remind President Synodinos of the tradition. It certainly doesn't get any better than that.

HOMECOMING

ACTIVITIES FAIR

At the advent of each new academic year the various clubs and organizations on campus participate in the annual Activities Fair. This event was created mainly for the incoming freshmen so that they can become familiar with the wide variety of extracurricular activies in which they could become involved if interested. It also gives the freshmen an opportunity to meet many of the upperclassmen and to socialize with them and makes it possible for the upperclassmen to welcome the new members of the student body.

OUR TOWN

Thornton Wilder's Our Town hit the LVC stage for Homecoming weekend, and, more importantly hit home for the viewing audience. The play, with virtually no props, took place in a quaint, ficticious New Hampshire town, Grover's Corners, in the early 20th century. It focuses on the lives and times of a few select townspeople as they go through the everyday motions of living, loving, working and dying.

The lead role in the play was the Stage Manager, played by Kevin Downs. He was the humble narrator of the play, describing the history of the town as well as the action on stage.

The first act was a typical day in the town, with Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs, played by B.J. Checket and Lara Berezin and their next door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Wally Webb, played by Ken Miller and Sonja Compton. These families wake at the crack of dawn to make their bacon and go to work. Their offspring leave for school. The townspeople go about their everyday chores and duties. There is not much else that goes on in the town.

The second act involves the ever-so-common puppy love theme, and then marriage, between George Gibbs and Emily Webb, played by Renato Biribin and Katherine Henry. Their love is as innocent as mom's apple pie, and they waste no time in tieing the knot, despite Emily's apprehension and desire to be loved forever and ever.

The final act was a somber display of the town graveyard, with the townspeople long since passed. It also involves Emily Webb's funeral,who died while giving birth to her second child. The deceased try to convince Emily not to flashback to the past because it would only make it more painful. They realize that it is easier to be dead than alive. This point of view, which Wilder tries to convey, is pretty hard to swallow, yet makes us wonder.

All of the characters of Our Town are real , with no window dressing. They are the kind of down-to-earth people you can find in Annville or just about anywhere. From George Gibbs' naive innocence to Dr. Gibbs' and Mrs. Webb's diligence and dry affection, and Emily's discontent with life, they are all well-staged and entertaining.

Congratulations to director Dave Plummer, to all those people not previously mentioned, and to those people appearing on the LVC stage for the first time. A job well done in Our Town!

BRIGHTON BEACH MEMOIRS

Neil Simon's poignant sitcom, Brighton Beach Memoirs, certainly made waves to a receptive audience. The play was a welcome change-of-pace for the LVC community, since the norm had been run-of-the-mill Broadway productions that have circulated for years on end.

The play covers a couple of weeks in the life of the Jerome family of Brooklyn , New York, in the late 1930's. The narrator of the play was 15-year old Eugene Jerome, played by Robert Schwartz. In a very realistic and from-the-hip performance, Eugene relates all the family crises, as well as his very pubescent point of view of life.

Typical family havoc develops in Brighton Beach over one evening's dinner: Eugene's older brother Stanley (Renato Biribin) is fired and must write a letter of apology to his superior to get his job back; live-in 16 year-old cousin Nora (Missy Andrews) wants to run off to Broadway to start her career, and her mother, Aunt Blanche (Pam Collins) doesn't approve. Nora's younger sister Laurie (Liz Whitney) has a perpetual flutter in her heart, and mother hen Kate (Kathleen Ryan) tries to keep sanity in the family. Chad Saylor plays the wise father, Jack Jerome, whom everyone goes to for strenght and guidance.

As with any situation comedy, there are always those little subplots which are so enjoyable to see, such as the conflict between Nora and her mother Blanche, who is a widow, and has to take responsibility and make decisions for her daughter. Blanche also feels that sooner or later, she has to make a life of her own and can't depend on her sister's family. There is even a spat between Blanche and her sister Kate.

At one point, Stanley gambles away his week's salary and feels the only thing left to do is to go into the service. He soon returns, realizing that he can't turn his back on his own family. Jack passes out on the subway from stress, but still doesn't fail with his infinite wisdom and ability to offer love and consolation. In the end, everyone makes up and everyone is happy.

All of the performances were equally powerful and balanced. None of the players really stole the show, but each one complemented the other. The play had all the right stuff: a good cast, an entertaining story, and lots and lots of laughs. Congratulations to Jef Betz for picking such a good play and pulling it off in such a big way.

GREASE

The Spring musical, Grease, at LVC was entertaining and on the whole was done with great pizzazz. The dancing was excellent and the singing was done with the usual 1950's spunk that everyone is used to in this production. The musical score, directed by Tracy Shank, was immpecable, in other words, spectacular.

Directed by LVC theatre veteran Sonja Compton and choreographed by Richard Wilson, Grease at LVC kept up to par with the original Broadway production, with the ever-so-predictable romance between the main players Sandy Dee (Theresa Leach) and Danny Zuko (Kirk Cremer). The entire cast fit their roles very well, especially Sandy Dee, who was as beautiful and innocent as Olivia Newton John in the movie Grease.

Grease maintained the LVC theatre standards of an entertaining performance.

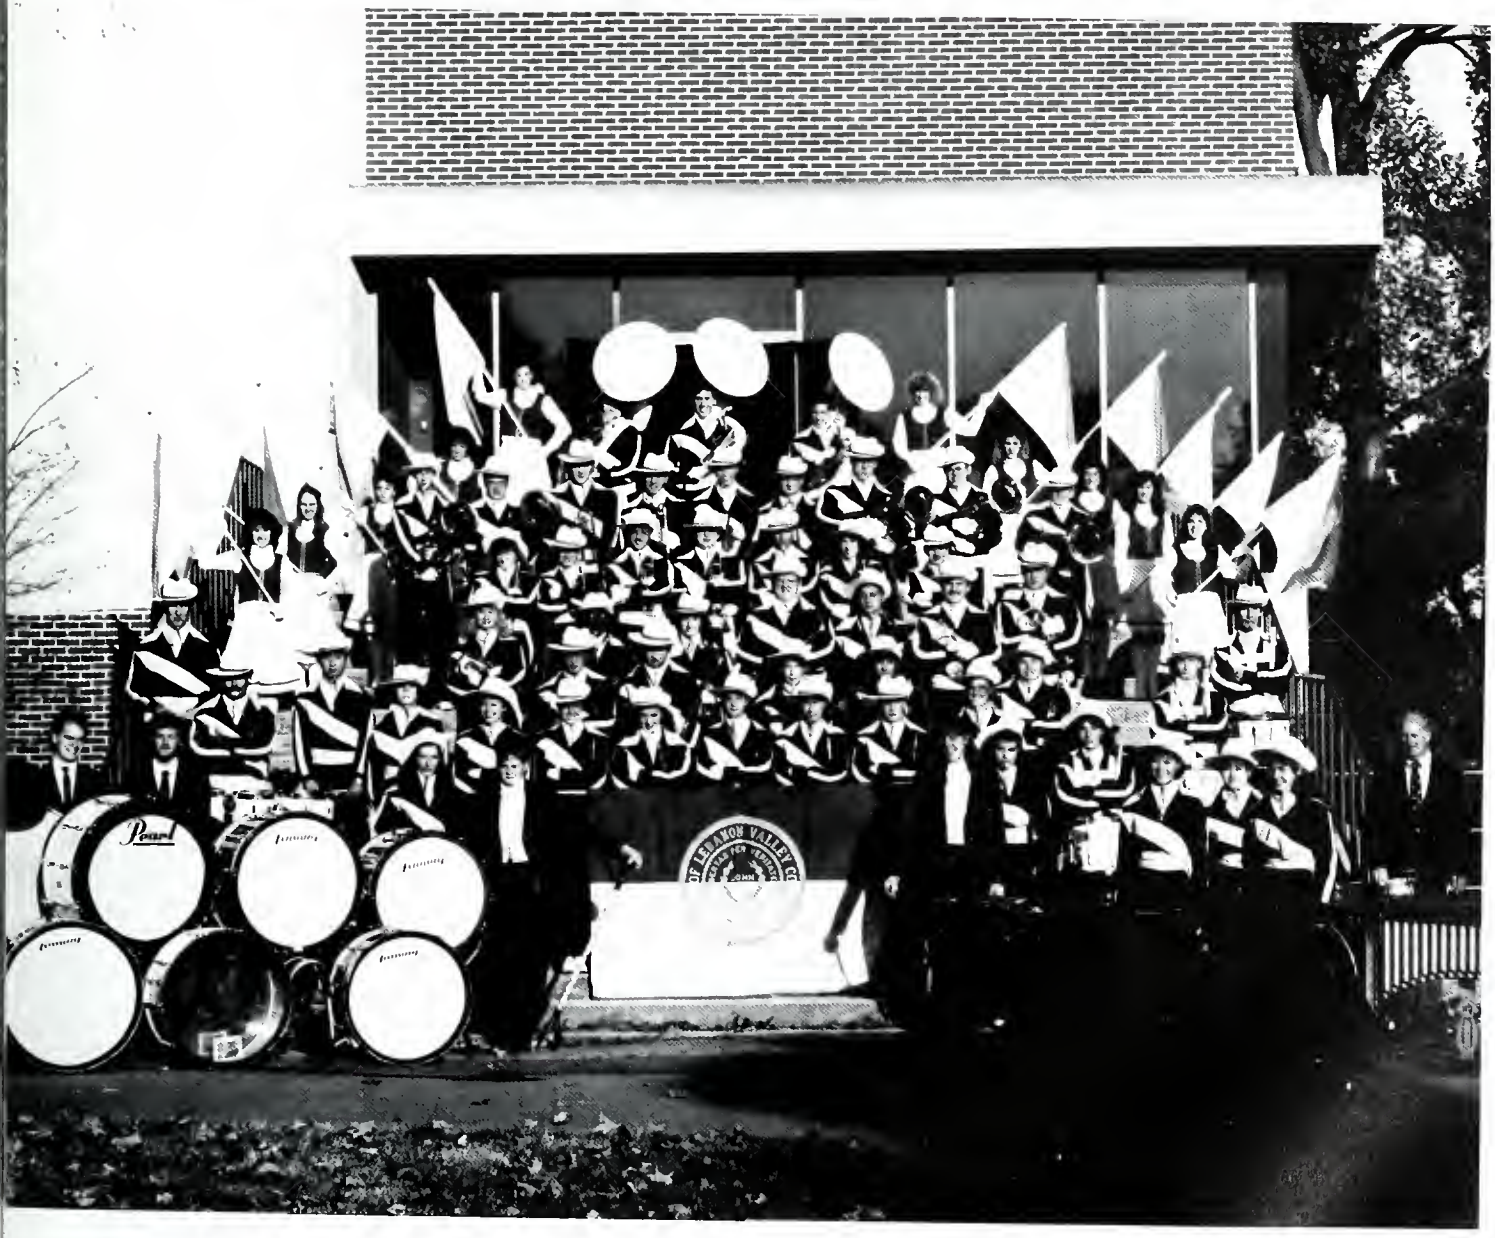
BAND

The 1988-'89 marching band, directed by Dr. Robert Hearson, arrived early on the LVC campus, once again, to compose its pre-game and half time shows and to prepare for the entire season in general. This early arrival also gave the new members a chance to become acquainted with the others as well as with the campus. The shows this year were designed by Lee Umberger. The Drum Majors were Christy Milliken and April Horning and the Silk Captains were Dee Capece and Kathy Henry.

Although belonging to the band requires hard work, cooperation and dedication, it also provides a source of fun and friendship for its members. One of the most important elements that enables the band to be so successful each year is their team spirit and their desire to do the best they possibly can.



LIGHT IN THE VALLEY

This year, Student Council and the Council of Religious Organizations sponsored a weekend of special seminars, music, and fellowship for the campus community. The weekend began on the evening of Friday March 10th with musician Mark Cable performing in Miller Chapel. On Saturday, a seminar series began at 1:00 p.m. Along with various other speakers, Rev. Gene Hubler of Pleasantville, the keynote speaker, appeared. Hubler spoke on "Evangelism in Our World."

The highlight of the weekend was Saturday evening's very successful David Meece concert. The Lynch Gym was packed with over 930 people.

The successful weekend came to a close on Sunday morning with a campus worship service in Miller Chapel. Student Council and CRO are hoping to make "Light in the Valley" an annual event.

FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIP WINNER

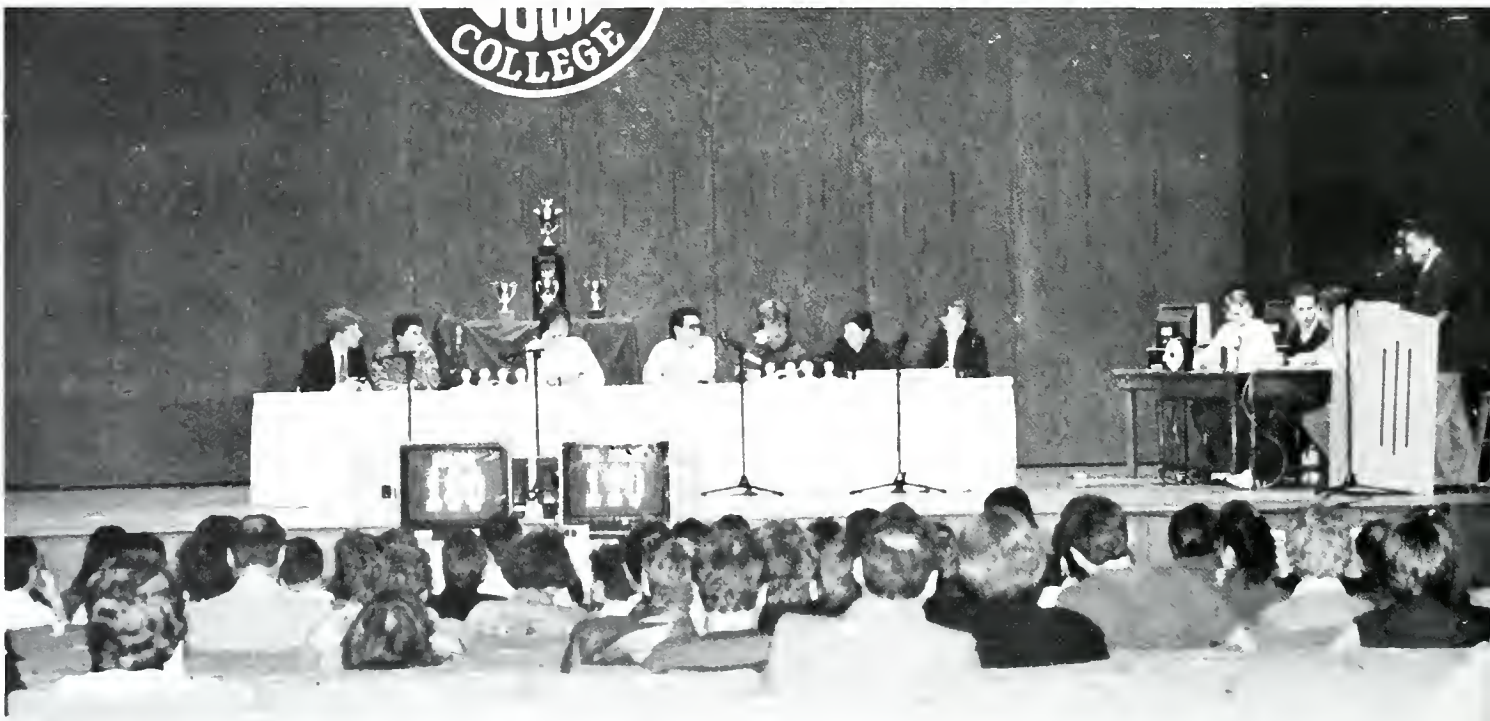
This year the prestigious Fulbright Scholarship was awarded to Leslie Marlo, a January of '89 graduate of LVC. Leslie, an actuarial science major, in September of '89 went to study at Heriot-Watt University in Edinburgh, Scotland and studied there for nine months.

In her junior year of college, Leslie was chosen by her departmental professors as exceptional and well qualified for the scholarship. Once she accepted the challenge, she had to derive a proposal for research in a certain field that could be taken to another country to be studied. This proposal had to be something that could be done more easily and productively in a country other than our own. Leslie's proposed topic of study was the past and future effects of AIDS on the insurance business.

Leslie then completed a very lenghty application with the help of her special staff. This application was then reviewed by the International Institute of Education and the various screening committees of the approximately 104 countries offering the program. After a long wait, the decision for winners was made, and Leslie was notified that she had won the scholarship.

LVC should be proud to know that within the past 14 years, eight LVC students have been awarded Fulbright Scholarships. It will be difficult, if not impossible, for any rival college to surpass this achievement.

QUIZ BOWL



SPORTS CENTER DEDICATION

The Edward H. Arnold Sports Center was officially dedicated in a public ceremony on Saturday, October 22, 1988. The ceremonies began at 10:30 in the morning in the Arnold Sports Center arena. Along with a number of other events that were slated for the day the crowd was entertained by performances from such groups as, Lebanon Valley's Quartet in Residence and the Concert Choir. The list of speakers included President Synodinos, Dean Marquette, Elizabeth Weisberger, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and of course Edward H. Arnold himself was present at the ceremonies.

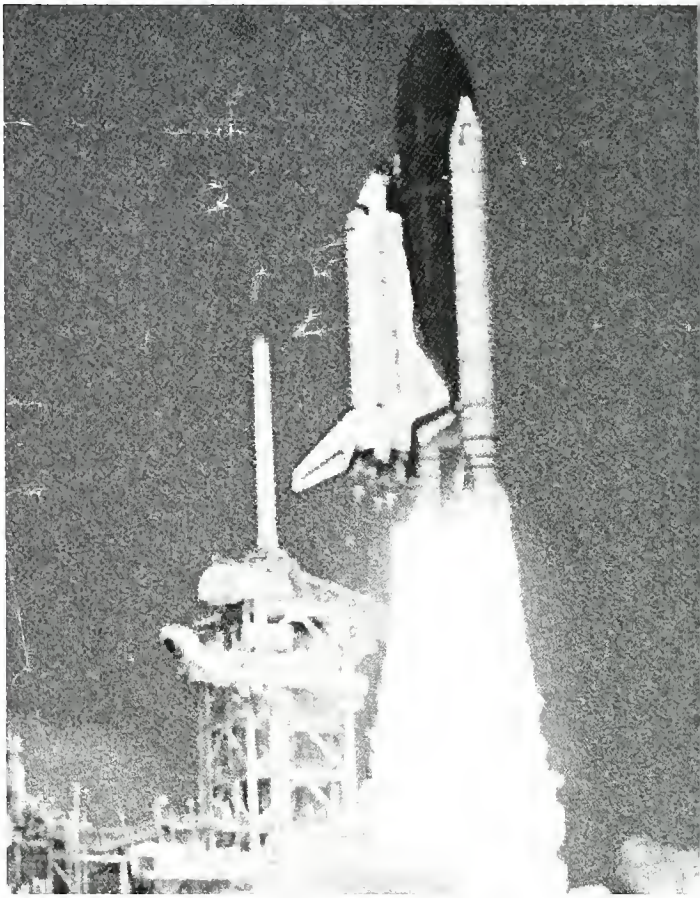
"This was a big event for the Lebanon Valley College community," said Vice President of Student Affairs George R. Marquette. Although "opening" ceremonies were celebrated the previous February when former President Arthur Peterson dived into the pool, the building was actually dedicated on the 22nd. Since February of '88 the Sports Center has become an everyday part of many of the students' lives but the dedication ceremonies made the building an official part of our campus.

The Development Office was responsible for putting the program together. All students and parents visiting for Parent's Day were invited to attend. Many of them did and the dedication ceremonies turned out to be a very successful event.

WORLD EVENTS

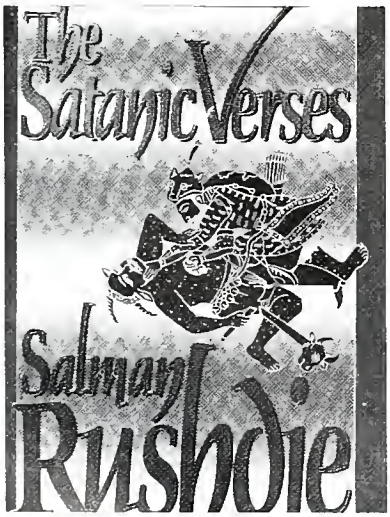
New Leader

In 1988 Ronald Reagan stepped down to allow his former Vice-President, George Bush, to take his place as our 41st President.



Voyage of Discovery

It had been three years since the Challenger disaster, and it was time for NASA to redeem itself. The Discovery's expedition was a great success, and America was back in space again.



Devil's Advocate

In 1989, Salman Rushdie published a novel that turned most of the Islamic world against him. "The Satanic Verses" quickly evoked the wrath of the Ayatollah Khomeini, who called for the murder of Rushdie, with a reward of $5 million as an incentive. Rushdie is currently in hiding in Britain, and has apologized for any distress he has caused.

Agony in Armenia

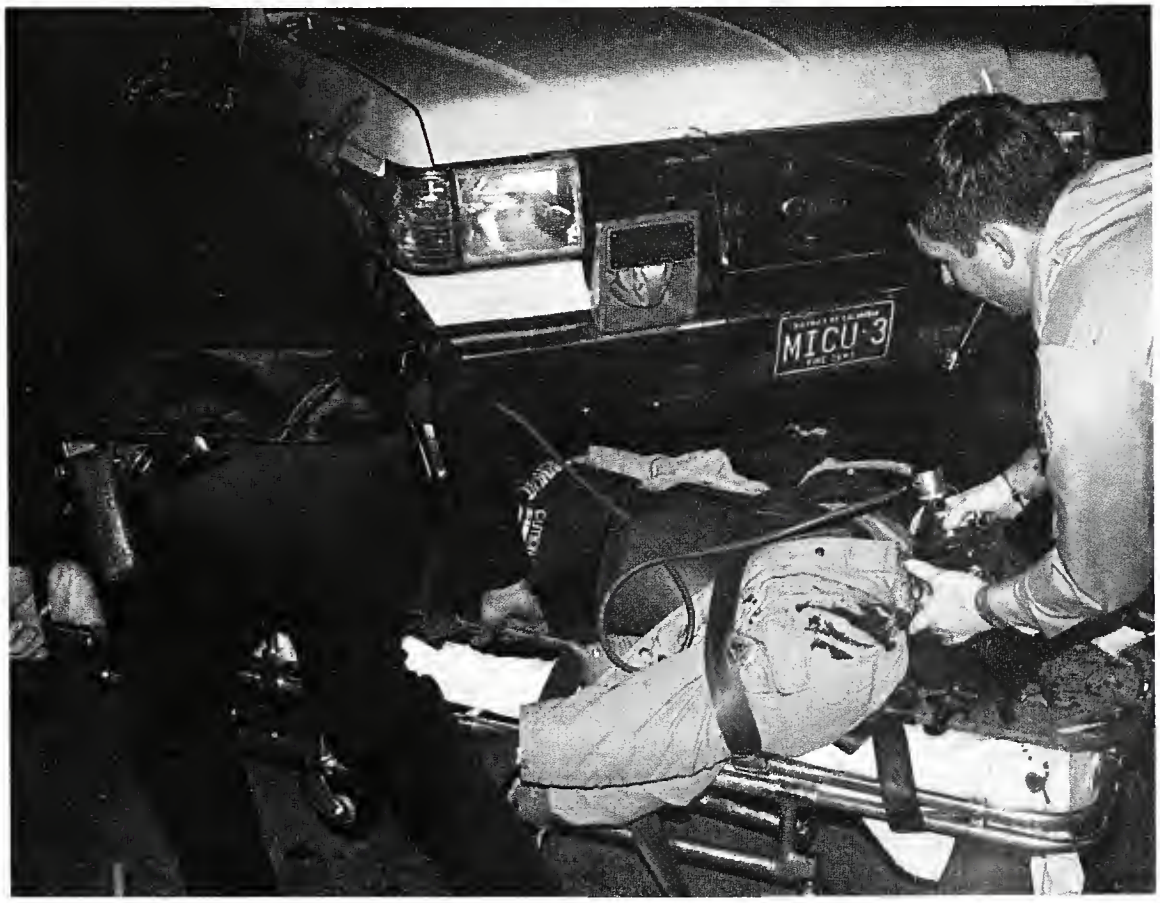
An earthquake hit Soviet Armenia in December, leaving more than 40,000 dead and many more seriously injured.

Tower Loses Nomination

Even with the endorsement of George Bush, John Tower could not win over the Senate and attain the position of Secretary of Defense. Tower was accused of excessive drinking and accepting $750,000 in consulting fees from defense contractors.

Murder in the Capital

There has been an explosion of drug-related violence in Washington. Since 1985, the District of Columbia's homocide rate has increased by 151 percent. The cause of this destruction is crack cocaine. No major city has a higher murder rate. For the most part, the homocides are committed by, and to, drug dealers. This wave of drug crime has thrown a shadow over the already controversial administration of Mayor Marion Barry. Another result is a shortage of local police officers, and overcrowding in Washington's jails.



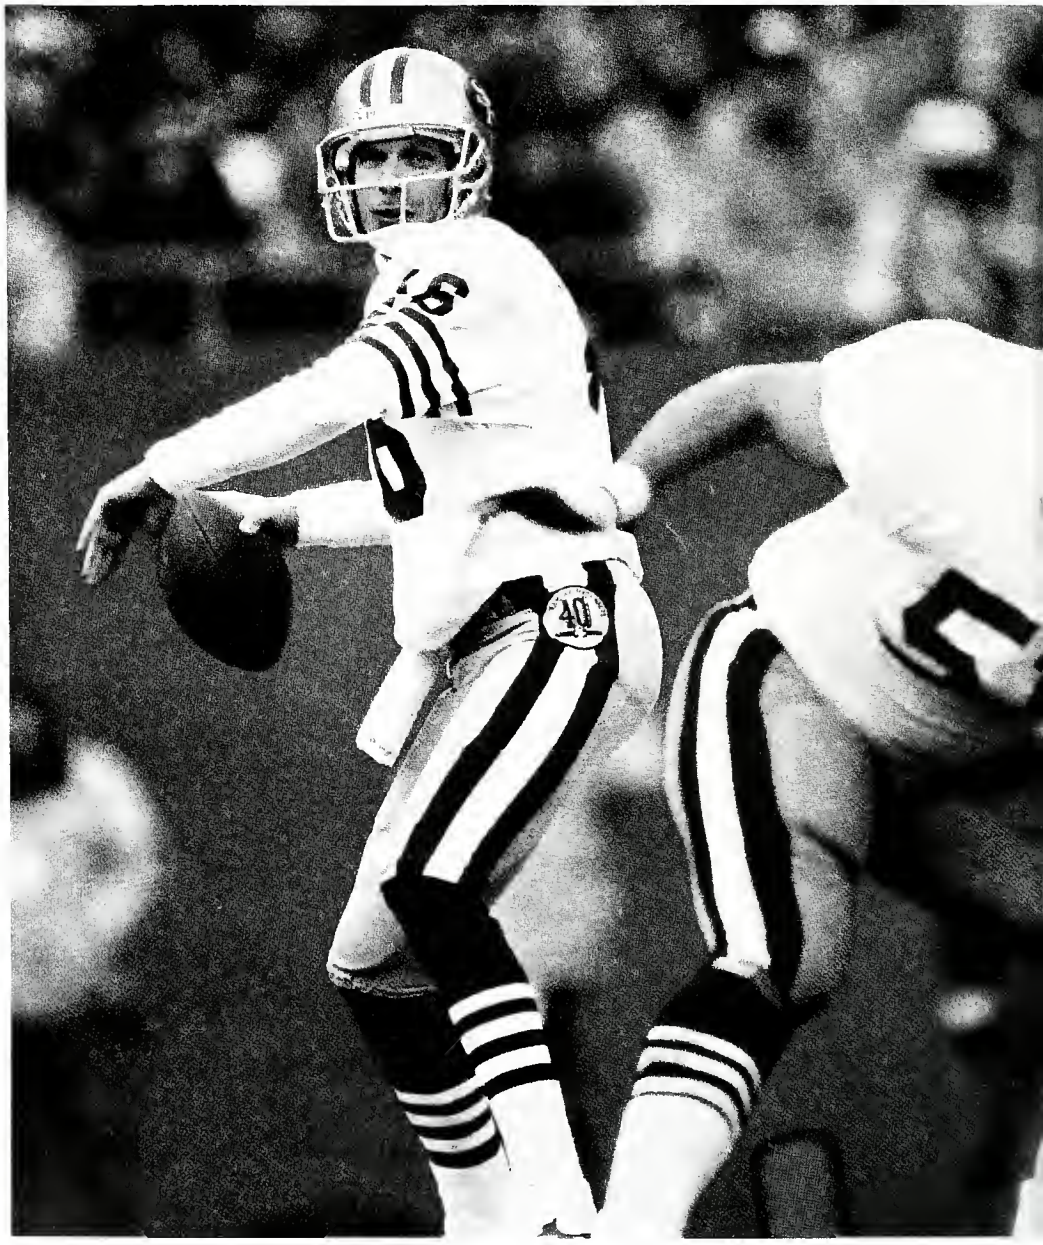
WORLD EVENTS

Box Office HIT

Rainman was the box office hit of the year. Critics as well as movie go-ers gave it "Thumbs up". Dustin Hoffman portrayed an autistic sevant and Tom Cruise played his brother. This touching, yet humorous, film recieved the honor of being chosen Best Film at the Academy Awards and also earned Hoffman an Oscar for Best Actor.

Super Bowl XXIII

This years Super Bowl was a tough game between the San Francisco 49-ers and the Cincinnatti Bengals. After four quaters of rough football, San Francisco emerged victorious to claim their title as the year's champions. The 49-ers were led by quarterback Joe Montana. This victory boosted his career and made his name a household word. The Super Bowl was said to be one of the best games of his career. Congratulations to both teams for a successful season.



1988 Summer Olympics

Seoul, Korea was the host to athletes from all over the world this year as the participants competed for medals in the Summer Games. We were proud of our U.S. team when they brought back their medals. After hitting his head on the diving board, Greg Louganis won the Gold Medal in the Men's Diving Competion. "Flo Jo's" unique style and speed made her an instant hit with her countrymen and also won her a medal.

Look Out Cosby

Roseanne Barr has taken the television sit-com industry by storm. Roseanne's cynical humor has made her and her show an instant success. She has launched her show to Nielsen Ratings Top 10 by basing her "average family life" show on her stand up comedy act. Getting past the humor of the show, Roseanne wanted to be the first mom ever to be a mom on television. She wants to show her viewers the struggles of a working mother.

ACADEMICS

A NEW LEADER

On December 4, 1988, Lebanon Valley College enjoyed a day of celebration. Beginning at 10:30 a.m. and culminating around 9:00 that evening, the day was filled with various festivities, including a morning worship service, a special dinner held for 720 invited guests, and the annual Christmas at the Valley service. The cause of all the hoopla was indeed a rare event, namely the inauguration of the fifteenth president of Lebanon Valley College.

After serving three years in the military, John A. Synodinos received his degree at Loyola College as a history major with a philosophy minor.

Since then, Synodinos has held many positions which include Assistant Director of Admissions and Associate Director of Public Relations and Special Events, both being at Johns Hopkins University. He was also President for Development at Franklin and Marshall College.

After helping to locate a new president for F & M, Synodinos resigned and began his own consulting firm. It was as a consultant that Synodinos first became familiar with Lebanon Valley. He participated in the presidential search and helped in the screening of the candiates. Synodinos, when asked, accepted the challenge of president after much consideration.

Synodinos now brings his considerable leadership abilities and warm, friendly manner to the Valley, and we welcome him with open arms.

"IN MEMORIAM"

Dr. Robert Clay
(1940 — 1988)

This past Christmas Day the Lebanon Valley College community suffered a great loss at the death of a good friend, Dr. Robert Clay. He became a respected member of the Lebanon Valley College family as a sociology professor in 1978. In 1986 he took on the additional responsibility as Registrar. He was dedicated to his work and showed a warm, friendly concern for students. Not only did Dr. Clay take care of registering students at Lebanon Valley, he was also a founder of the Lebanon Valley College Quiz Bowl. He belonged to several prestigious organizations including: the Civil War Roundtable, the American Sociological Association, and the Society for Psychological Study of Social Issues.

Dr. Clay was always willing to make time for others, not just students but for strangers as well. He was involved in the noon meals program, which is geared to bring food to those who are in need. It is this concern and compassion for others that will keep Dr. Clay living on in our hearts.

Even though he is no longer with us, his spirit and lasting accomplishments will be a constant reminder of the love that he had for the Lebanon Valley College community.

NEW FOOD SERVICE

One of the biggest changes on the Lebanon Valley campus this year was the renovation of the dining hall and the hiring of a new food service. Students returned from Christmas Break and saw a whole new set-up, provided by the Hallmark Management Service.

Students are now eating in the completely renovated, "restaurant-like" East Dining Hall instead of the West Dining Hall.

Getting into the cafeteria has become more difficult. Students must show both their college identification card and their newly issued meal card to the monitor before entering the Dining Hall.

As for the food, some think it is better and some do not, but there is a much larger selection than before. The salad bar is about three times as large as it used to be, there are always at least two choices of entree', and there is a dessert bar.

The students were at first dismayed by the new set-up, however, they are now growing accustomed to the new procedures and atmosphere. Overall, the new service has done a lot to improve the dining experience at Lebanon Valley College.

ATHLETICS

FOOTBALL

The Dutchmen ended their '88 football season with a record of 3-6-1 and 2-6 in the Middle Atlantic Conference. LVC finished seventh in the nine-team conference, ahead of Wilkes and Albright. The win over Wilkes College on Parent's Day was very important because it emphasized how much the Dutchmen have improved during the tenure of head coach Jim Monos. The last two times they played Wilkes, they were beaten. This marked the first victory for LVC over a traditional MAC power in several seasons. After years of frustration, LVC seems to be on the verge of becoming a contender in the MAC.

The final record for LVC's 1988 Field Hockey Team was 15-3-2. This was the first year in the college's history that the Field Hockey Team won the MAC title.

After capturing the conference title, the team traveled to the NCAA Division III playoffs. There, the Field Hockey Team defeated Elizabethtown College, which was ranked third regionally and in the top eight nationally. Unfortunately, in the second round of playoffs, top ranked and defending national champion Bloomsburg State University brought LVC's rise to the top to a halt.

The success of the Field Hockey team as a whole was mirrored by many of its members, including Bryna Vandergrift and Sue Partilla, who made the regional All-American First Team, and Kristen Brandt and Sue Leonard who made second team.

WRESTLING

After a long and successful career as head coach of the Lebanon Valley wrestling team, Gerald Petrofes retired. During his twenty-five years with the team, he had accumulated more than two hundred wins.

Larry Larthey, a 1972 graduate of Lebanon Valley, took the reins as head wrestling coach this season.

The team traveled to Scranton to compete in the Middle Atlantic Conference Tournament in February of this year. Despite some setbacks in its 1988-'89 season the team is looking hopefully toward the future.

Project

Although PROJECT is a predominantly Christian organization, you don't have to belong to a particular faith in order to be a member. In fact, the term project originally stood for "Protestants, Jews, and Catholics Together."

As an organization, we try to promote a spirit of love throughout the LVC community, as well as the world around us. We try to provide activities that are fun, but at the same time contribute to the spiritual growth of all who attend.

Psychology Club

LVC's Psychology Club welcomes all students who express an interest in psychology. The club sponsors guest speakers, picnics, pizza parties, trips to regional conventions and other events.

This year the Psychology Club attended the Eastern Psychological Association Conference, which was held March 30 to April 2, 1989, in Boston.

Membership in the Psych Club is an excellent way to meet other students with an interest in psychology, discover new developments in the field and have fun, too!

Quittapahilla

The Quittapahilla, LVC's yearbook, is a student-run organization. The staff works throughout the academic year to produce the yearbook, which is distributed to the student body every fall.

Members of the Quittapahilla staff work taking photographs, writing articles, selling yearbook subscriptions and doing layouts. Students design every aspect of the book. It is a fun experience that enables students to meet new people, make new friends, and learn what goes into creating a yearbook.

Ski Club

The purpose of the LVC Ski Club is to promote interest in skiing among the general student population and to provide students with an opportunity to improve their skiing skills. Activities for this academic year include a one week trip to Killington, Vermont and several learn-to-ski days to local ski areas.

The Ski Club is returning to the LVC campus after a four year absence. Though it is a small club now, we hope it will grow into one of the largest and most enjoyable clubs on campus.

Spring Arts Festival

The objectives of the Spring Arts Festival are to foster the arts locally by providing artists in every phase of the arts an opportunity to perform and/or exhibit their work, to improve relations and communications between the college and community, and to organize activities in the various art forms as learning experiences for all ages.

This year the 19th annual Festival was held on April 28th, 29th, and 30th. There were activities for everyone. The Festival is an entirely student run organization.

Achievement

The future belongs to our youth. Their education, physical development and general well-being are in the best interest of us all. They deserve our support in the form of well-planned and well-managed community programs. Programs where they'll learn about the pride of accomplishment. And the satisfaction of achievement.

Meridian, one of Pennsylvania's strongest bank holding companies, is proud to support these activities.

Because we don't just work here.
We live here too.℠
